

House Committee Cuts $19 Millions from Budget Estimates on Second Bill

Group Appropriates 79 Millions for TVA in 1938, Bonus Administration and Varied Federal Activities for Fiscal Year.

FLOOD CONTROL

Restoration of a Million for Mississippi Flood Control Recommended—May Vote Today.

Washington, April 28 (AP).—The House appropriations committee, spurred by President Roosevelt's demand for economy, slashed $18,828,605 today from the budget bureau's estimates for the second deficiency appropriation bill.

The committee approved $79,206,943 for the Tennessee valley authority in 1938, to defray administrative expenses of paying the soldiers' bonus and to finance varied federal activities for the rest of this fiscal year.

The largest item was TVA's—$40,166,270—for use during the fiscal year beginning July 1. Permission to make contracts totaling $4,000,000 also was given TVA. The total of $44,166,270 made available to that agency represented a reduction of approximately $4,524,000 from the current year's figure.

The principal reduction was $15,000,000 cut from $30,000,000 recommended by the budget bureau for refunds and payments of processing and related taxes. The tax refunds were made necessary by supreme court invalidation of the agricultural adjustment act, but Congress provided that processors must prove—before receiving such refunds—that they had not passed the taxes on to consumers.

Money for Flood Control.

Restoration of $1,000,000 to the appropriation for flood control on the Mississippi river was recommended because of recent floods. The committee said topping of work points in the levees and opening up the Bird's point—new Madrid floodway would consume $4,169,000 of appropriations already made.

House leaders planned to call up the measure for consideration today with a hope of passing it before nightfall.

In connection with the TVA program, the committee approved $742,439 for continuation of preliminary investigations for the proposed Giltbertville Dam on the Tennessee river. The project was suggested for controlling floods on the Tennessee, Ohio and Cumberland rivers. Its cost was estimated at $300,000,000.

The committee rejected requests for $447,160 for further investigation of dams on the upper Tennessee at Watts Bar and Coulter Shoals and $382,450 for preliminary investigation of possible sites for dams and reservoirs on the major tributaries of the Tennessee.

Under Construction

Of the total TVA allocation, $35,559,957 would be available for projects under construction, including the Guntersville dam and reservoir in Alabama; Hiwassee dam and reservoir in North Carolina and the Pickwick Landing and Chickamauga dams and reservoirs in Tennessee.

For electrical plant and equipment, the committee recommended $5,100,000 to provide for additional transmission lines, sub-stations and investment in distribution properties.

The committee included $3,445,000 for the TVA's soil conservation and fertilizer program and $200,734 for the national defense phase of its work.

Other items in the bill include $15,000,000 for refunds and payments of processing taxes—50 per cent less than the budget bureau requested; $17,347,263 for the interior department; $1,001,256 for the war department.

FIXAL FREEDOM MAY 4

FOR WALLIS SIMPSON

London, April 28 (AP).—Wallis Warfield Simpson will be free May 4, to become the Duchess of Windsor. If her divorce case keeps its schedule in the courts, a final decree, making her divorce from Ernest Aldrich Simpson absolute, will be granted Tuesday unless there is some last minute complication which her lawyers believe is now beyond the realm of probability.

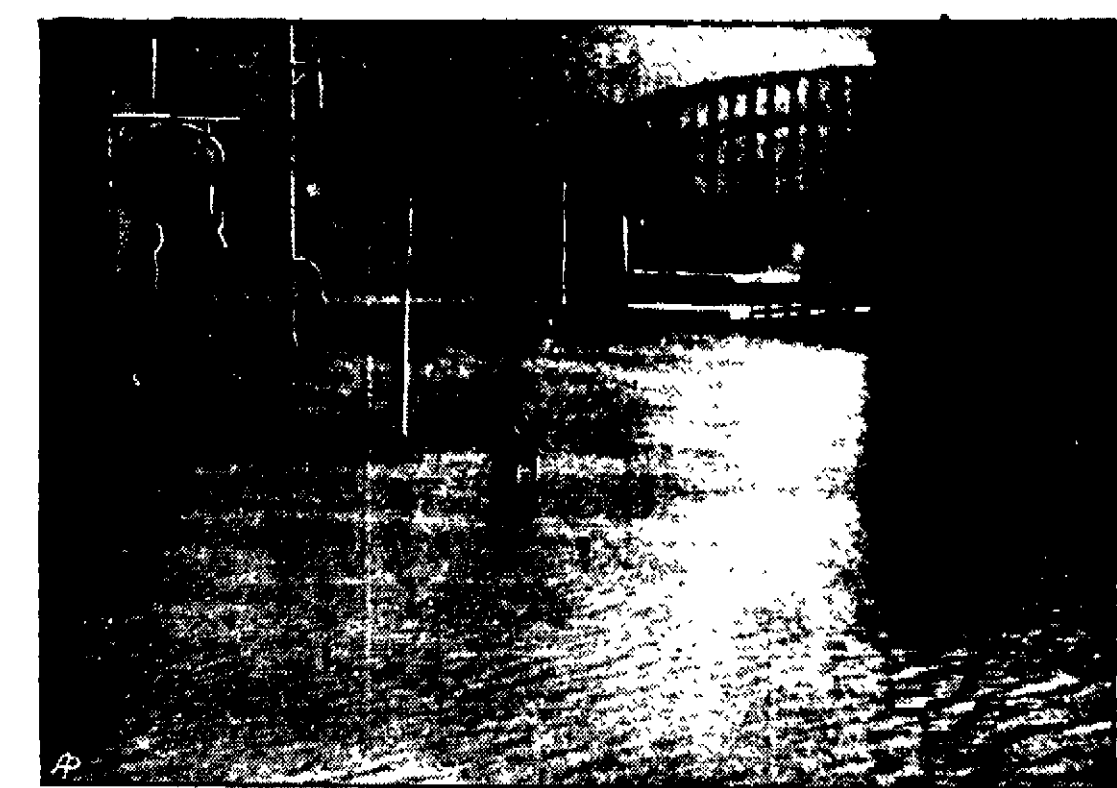

WARRANT FOR FUGITIVE

Buffalo, N. Y., April 28 (AP).—Judge Set. George J. Bardett left today for Beverly Hills, Calif., with an abundance of warrants against a man he said had left his coat and a suitcase on the bench of Niagara Falls five years ago. Detective Ward said that William F. Hirsch, 25, former suburban politician, had waived extradition. Police reported that Hirsch's wife and four small children have been receiving money from the State Bankers' London Fund.

Two Remanded From Ship

Gloucester, Scotland, April 28 (AP).—More than 200 passengers were returned in Hibernia today after the steamer had been ordered to a port at Dunrobin, near Ayr, Scotland, because of a fire on board in the first cabin, on the island of Kintyre.

1,500 Ulster Farmers May Be "Conserved," Requests Pour in for Part in AAA

Hudson River Study Bill Is Returned to Group for Change

Albany, April 28 (Special).—In a surprise move, the Senate finance committee chairman, Senator Jeremiah F. Twomey, Democrat of Brooklyn, has recommended to committee the Hamilton-Garritty bill creating a temporary state commission to make a survey of the Hudson river valley.

The bill, sponsored by Assemblyman Laurens M. Hamilton, of Sterling, Rockland county, and Senator James A. Garritty, of Yonkers, passed in the Assembly last week, and was scheduled for a vote in the Senate Tuesday. Instead of the expected vote, however, Senator Twomey moved to have the bill recommitted to his committee "for probable amendment."

The amendments, it is understood, will probably require the governor to appoint only members of the legislature to the commission. As the bill stands at present, the commission members would be the state conservation commissioner, ex-officio, the chairman of the Senate finance committee, chairman of the Assembly ways and means committee, and five other members appointed by the governor, who need not necessarily be members of the legislature. The appropriation carried in the measure is $15,000.

"If these suggested amendments are made," asserted Assemblyman Hamilton, "I will not concur in them when the bill comes back to the Assembly for re-passage. The commission, which will have a great deal of work to do, should not be made up of legislators."

As outlined in the measure, the purpose of the commission is to make a "comprehensive survey" and study of the scenic and historic sites and commercial possibilities of the Hudson river valley, for the purpose of recommending action to protect the sites of importance against destruction or defacement. A report is to be made by the group on or before February 1, 1938.

CHILD LABOR MADE GOODS

WILL GOES TO STATE SENATE

Albany, N. Y., April 28 (AP).—A bill outlawing the sale and production of child labor-made goods within New York state, already bearing Assembly approval, went to a floor vote in the Democratic-controlled Senate today. A Senate committee unexpectedly reported the bill out last night.

The bipartisan proposal, drafted as a substitute for rejected anti-child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution, was passed several weeks ago by the Republican-dominated Assembly.

At the same time, a resolution memorializing Congress to enact the Wheeler-Wadsworth making such legislation nation-wide, was introduced in the Assembly.

Legislation for New York state only, Governor Lehman has insisted, would be "unenforceable" and "impracticable."

Treasury Receipts

Washington, April 28 (AP).—The position of the treasury on April 28: Receipts, $14,472,742.21; expenditures, $24,117,191.42; balance, $1,472,925.41. Customs receipts for the month, $14,022,124.64. Receipts for the fiscal year ended July 1, $1,405,104,283.29; expenditures, $1,172,548,849.75; undistributed $2,322,555,233.41 of emergency expenditures. Balance of emergency funds, $2,125,441,700.44. Gross sales, $24,877,422,154.40, an increase of $2,119,190.67 over the previous year's total. Net sales, $24,444,745.41, including $2,525,274,874.49 of inactive gold.

Ulster county farms are going to be "conserved" like nobody's business this year, judging by the way thrifty farmers are filing work sheets for participation in the 1937 agricultural conservation program under the AAA.

Farm Bureau Manager Albert Kurdt reports that already 960 work sheets have been filed at his office and says that he would not be surprised if the number reached 1,500. Last year the total was 600 as against the 960 filed since March this year.

The official bulletin states that a top limit will be established for the total amount that may be earned by adopting soil-building practices on any one farm. It adds that "many successful farmers have been using these practices for years." The practices referred to include liming for sweetening acid soils, the use of phosphoric acid, potash, and nitrogen and turning under green manure crops to enrich the soil.

Determining Allowance

In determining allowance a credit is set up based on allowance of $1 for each acre of cropland; $1 additional for each acre of cropland in commercial orchards; $1 additional for each acre of cropland on which only one crop of commercial vegetables was grown in 1936 and $2 an acre where two or more such crops were grown; 35 cents for each acre of fenced non crop open pasture land; and excess of half the number of acres of cropland.

A farmer may earn up to the above limits by carrying out any one or more of 20 approved soil-building practices. For instance, a farmer will be repaid at the rate of $3 a ton for pulverized limestone applied to his land. For seeding white clover he will receive $1 an acre; for seeding cornell pasture mixture or alfalfa, $3 an acre. Plowing under legumes which have reached a growth of 12 inches will bring the conservationist $2.50 an acre.

Plans for Orchards.

The man who has an unproductive orchard has a chance to get into the "big money." For removing all the trees from an unproductive orchard and planting land to legumes, or a mixture of these and grasses, $10 an acre will be paid. The same amount may be secured by setting out forest trees, at the rate of 1,000 trees per acre. For fencing in farm woodlands, previously used for pasture, there is a reward of from 15 to 20 cents per rod of fence.

Rumor Uptown Hotel May Be Sold to Divine

Rumors that an uptown hotel would be sold to Father Divine within the next few days today excited uptown business men to the point that a petition is being circulated calling for action against any such sale.

Although business concerns which are interested in the hotel as mortgage or loan holders deny that they know of any plan of sale, it has been definitely established that representatives of Father Divine looked over the property as late as Monday.

The petition will be signed by members of the hotelmen's association and a similar massive will be presented to the Uptown Business Men's Association, according to sponsors of the documents. Business men are thoroughly alarmed that Father Divine may establish himself in the Kingston business district.

Reilly Charged With Negligence in Bus Crash Killing Man

Thomas Reilly, 32, of Kingston, driver of the Short Line Bus involved in an accident at Meadow Run Hill, four miles north of Glens Falls, at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, in which J. B. Hawley of Lake George was killed, pleaded not guilty to a charge of criminal negligence when arraigned and was admitted to $500 bail.

According to state troopers the bus with some 10 passengers was running between New York City and Saranac Lake and was in charge of Mr. Reilly. Following a car of Russell E. Fripe of Saratoga Springs the bus was going northward. Four miles north of Glens Falls Fripe was about to make a left turn into a private driveway and according to troopers, Reilly applied his brakes suddenly when the bus skidded and the Hawley car coming south was in collision with the bus. The bus was one of the Short Line fleet of 12 city, and Reilly was employed by the Adirondack Transit Lines, Inc., operators of the Short Line.

Mr. Hawley was dead on arrival at Glens Falls Hospital and Mrs. Hawley was said to be critically injured. She suffers concussion of the brain, bruises and cuts and possible internal injuries. Passengers on the bus suffered but minor injuries.

Dr. Herbert A. Bartholomew, Jr., of Glens Falls ordered an autopsy and will conduct an inquest into the death of Mr. Hawley, 48 years old. Reilly was arraigned before Justice of the Peace C. J. Nobles of Queensbury, and after pleading not guilty to a charge of criminal negligence, was admitted to $500 bail for a hearing on May 4.

Enthusiastic Woodstockers Hear Plans for Town's Pageant at June Sesquicentennial

Woodstock, April 28. An interested group of Woodstock citizens gathered in Freeman's Hall, Tuesday evening to listen enthusiastically to Miss Edna J. Ingle's plan for the six percent of Woodstock's sesquicentennial celebration, and to offer their assistance wherever needed.

Mrs. Joseph Cooper, of Lake Hill, called the meeting to order and introduced Mrs. Nancy Schenck, who briefly outlined her publicity plan. She was followed by Mrs. Zoe McClary, chairman of the program committee. Mrs. McClary explained that when the historical society first thought of having this sesquicentennial pageant, it was first decided to make a directory of the town's old families. Great interest was shown by these old families in with this sesquicentennial plans were started and have now reached the present well organized point. The evening's meeting was held with this in mind, so that the huge cast, probably to exceed 400, could be organized.

Mrs. McClary gave a short description of the booklet to be published by the organization and to be printed by Frederick Hunt, whom Mrs. McClary praised very highly. Mr. Hunt, a personal friend of Frederick W. Gouldy, of Marlborough, famous type designer, called Mrs. Gouldy's cooperation. As a result a special type, Carakill, will be used to print the booklet. Mr. Gouldy will design and cast the type at his workshop, The Village Press, located on his estate, Isephope.

Besides the names of business contributors to be listed in a classified and artistic manner, the booklet will contain the names of Woodstock residents who desire to be included, thus making a directory of this period in Woodstock history.

Flood Drives 3,000 Persons From Homes at Wheeling, Pittsburgh Demands Control

Being Harlem's 'God' Has Its Tribulations

By CHARLES NORMAN
AP Feature Service Writer

New York—Awd whispers of "God", melodious chants of "peace, it's wonderful," greet Father Divine's appearances among his followers, but to ordinary mortals he seems a genially shrewd colored person of less than ordinary height, with a bald head, and an addiction to double-breasted blue suits and bright ties set off by a pearl stickpin.

He reached the heaven of Harlem by easy stages from points south.

Valdosta, Ga., saw the last of him in 1911. There, a jury found him of unsound mind, recommended that he leave the state. The warrant called for the apprehension of "John Doe, alias God," for he withheld his own name and his followers gave him the appellation which has stuck. Following his trial, he left Georgia.

Hits New York in 1915

His real name seems to have been George Baker. In his 60 years of wandering evangelism, his various names underwent a number of changes, but "God" remained. In Baltimore, as a disciple of one Samuel Morris, a negro preacher who asserted he had been born again as "Father Jehovah," Baker became "The Messenger."

At various times he was Major J. Divine, the Rev. J. Divine, and finally Father Divine.

He arrived in New York with a handful of followers in 1915. In towns en route, where he electrified negro audiences with his powerful oratory (whose underlying doctrine is "Peace, it's wonderful"), his followers found temporary jobs which supported the wandering group.

Religious Communism

First in Brooklyn, then in Long Island, Father Divine launched a kind of religious communism. Waxes were pooled, he saw to the feeding and clothing of his followers, inserted ads to get jobs for unemployed disciples, and even appeared before prospective employers to announce he was the Rev. J. Divine, and could "recommend and re-recommend, guarantee and re-guarantee" the job-seeker concerned.

It was in Sayville, L. I., that his group flourished and his fame spread. His Sunday dinners, at which food was good and plentiful, and where no collections were taken, brought emissaries from Harlem, who returned to New York's negro community bearing tidings of a messiah.

By 1931, with complaints pouring in, the police of Sayville decided, Father Divine was a "public nuisance" and arrested him on that charge. He went to jail. A judge died, his conviction was reversed by the appeal court in 1932, and his fame grew. He removed his "heaven" to Harlem and issued a statement to set at rest whispers, rumors and charges.

Divine Elucidates

Part of his statement, signed "I, Rev. M. J. Divine," follows: "I AM giving this statement to forewarn the public and those who may be concerned; that these reports are unfounded, the most of them, especially in reference to any person or persons selling their insurance policies or turning them in and giving the refunds to ME, and also the fictitious name, they have given to ME."

"I accept of no donations, contributions or love offerings of any kind, that is, if it is known to have come from any person."

"The Ten Million Followers of

"John Doe, alias God"...

Spellbinds His Way...

To Heaven in Harlem

Mine, and Believers, having given ME their lives and all they have possessed, does not mean that they give it to ME as a person, neither have these things come under MY Personal Jurisdiction. When they say, they have given ME anything or all they have, they are not speaking of giving ME anything. Personally, for they can tell the World at large, I do not need it as a Person...."

Hides in Rolls Royce

This statement, with characteristic punctuation, would appear to tell as much as it leaves untold concerning Father Divine's financial operations. Observers believe the "angel" deceived followers of Father Divine, hand over their waxes and possessions, receiving in return board and lodging and "Peace, it's wonderful." Several suits, to recover possessions thus handed over, introduce a sordid, mundane note in the rapturous atmosphere of Divine's "heaven."

Although no one has ever discovered that Father Divine either carries any cash on his person, or owns anything in his name, he rides in a Rolls Royce (second hand) and operates apartment houses, flats, shops and "extension heavens" in Baltimore, Newark, Jersey City, Bridgeport, Conn., and a "promised land" near Kingston, N. Y., as a vacation ground.

No Crime, Says Court

Albany, N. Y., April 28 (AP).—Transportation of untaxed liquor into New York from another state is no crime providing it is for home consumption, a unanimous court of appeals decision held today. The court ruled that the state liquor law "does not refer to personal use" of intoxicants brought into the state in upholding dismissal in a Westchester county court of an indictment against Joseph Ryan, of Rio Ryan was charged with unlawfully carrying a bottle of Scotch whiskey and 11 bottles of wine from Greenwich Conn., into New York state on December 14, 1935.

Going to 'Test' Marshall

Washington, April 28 (AP).—Miss Lawrence Howard of Harlem county, N. Y., informed Senate investigators today a group of drunken deputes abridged told her they were going to "test" Marshall Music, the night music man from the South.

Charged With Larceny

New York, April 28 (AP).—Michael Korman, 26, was in the lineup at police headquarters today charged with armed larceny from the silver theft of $1,000 of jewelry from the Park Avenue apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart E. Erdman.

Water Reaches 45.9 Feet at Wheeling or 10 Feet Above
Flood Stage—Property Damage
Estimated at $175,000.

PARKS FLOODED

Washington, D. C., Parks Under Potomac — London, Ontario,
Streets Covered with Silt.

Wheeling, W. Va., April 28 (AP).—The flooded Ohio river left 3,000 persons homeless in this industrial city of 70,000 today as its muddy waters receded slowly from a peak of 45.9 feet—nearly 10 feet over flood stage.

Red Cross officials estimated between 600 and 700 flood refugees were receiving direct relief and shelter at three relief centers.

City Manager Harry J. Humphrey said the city would have to spend more than $20,000 to clean the debris from the streets. He indicated property damage might approach $175,000.

The waters receded two-tenths of a foot an hour after remaining stationary at their crest for three hours.

To Climb 3 or 4 Feet

Marletta, O., April 28 (AP).—The deluge-plattered Ohio river's flood crest, unencumbered by any further spring rainfall, moved slowly today on this city of 15,000 residents after leveling off at Martins Ferry, Steubenville and East Liverpool, farther up the upper Ohio valley.

The upper valley's third and least serious flood in 14 months was expected to cause the Ohio to climb three or four feet over flood stage of 36 feet here but the city's business district—under eight feet of water in January—apparently was not endangered.

River men reported that the crest which made more than 300 houses uninhabitable affecting some 500 persons at East Liverpool, 125 miles upstream from this eastern Ohio city, would flatten out below here.

Some 200 refugees from lowland homes were being cared for at Martins Ferry, 85 miles upstream, as the waters receded slowly after nearing 16 feet—ten feet above flood stage—early today.

Electric traction service was suspended at Martins Ferry, across the Ohio from Wheeling, W. Va., and although Wheeling Island was almost completely covered with water, few residents left their homes, most of them simply moving to upper stories.

Pittsburgh Asks Protection

Pittsburgh, April 28 (AP).—Pittsburgh raised its voice today for federal protection from floods as the most serious threat from high-water since the inundation of St. Patrick's Day, 1936, retreated rapidly.

City council adopted a resolution asking congress to install storage reservoirs throughout the extensive Allegheny and Monongahela river basins so that "flood control may become a reality in as short a time as humanly possible."

Meanwhile, as the high water that reached a crest of 35.1 feet yesterday—10 feet over flood stage—swept downstream on luckless Ohio Valley communities, Pittsburgh launched its clean up program.

The rivers seeped slowly back within their banks, and Weather Observer W. S. Brotzman said the city had escaped a serious flood unless heavy rains should develop. The forecast was for showers.

The Red Cross was caring for more than 1,000 refugees in relief centers, while several thousand more peered from second floors at the yellowish water that had invaded their homes for the third time since St. Patrick's Day of 1936.

There was no official estimate of damage.

$1,000,000 Damage

London, Ont., April 28. Canadian Press.—Flood waters of the Thames river receded today, leaving a coat of silt over a broad section of London. Authorities' estimated damage at $1,000,000.

Officials expressed the worst was over as the stream, after reaching 24 feet above normal, slipped back two feet in four hours despite continuing rain. Some 6,000 people, driven from their homes by the flood, were not expected to return for several days, however.

The creek turned on toward Lake St. Clair. The city of Chatham took precautions, but officials said they did not expect serious trouble.

Water in Famed Parks

Washington, April 28 (AP).—Muddy flood waters of the Potomac swelled today through Washington's famed parks on the river front and threatened to shut off highway traffic over main road from the South.

A foot of water covered the Potomac Park lawns and much of Haines Point where cherry blossoms were in bloom. A drive behind the river was under way.

Army engineers and weather bureau forecasters today warned that the city could be hit by heavy rain, that the city could be hit by heavy rain, that the city could be hit by heavy rain.

Four Fires in Village

Highland, April 28—Four fires, the first starting Friday night about 8 o'clock in the Abbate house, at the lower corner and occupied by Mrs. John Griffo, called out the fire department. Saturday morning the department was called to property near the residence of Harry Colyer on the Bellevue road to extinguish a grass fire which had crept up the hill from the railroad. Sunday afternoon cinders from a passing train on the Bridge road started a fire on the ties of the bridge over Vineyard avenue, and the small truck was called out to put the fire out. The well-oiled ties made a dense black smoke. Monday morning soon after 7 o'clock a chimney fire in the Mrs. Charlotte Wadlin double house on White street, occupied by Samuel Di Stasi, called out the firemen for the fourth time.

Woodstockers Hear Plans For Pageant

horseback, with the startling news that the British are burning Kingston in the same scene villagers Short and Miller will be kidnapped. In the fourth scene, in 1840, to be handled by Ralph Eighmer, and the Shady-Willow group, will occur the tarring and feathering of a sheriff.

The last scene, in 1854 will again be the village church, with the Inn and small buildings, fruit carts, blue stone wagons, and fur dealers. Under the direction of Dyrus Cook, 20 villagers will dance country square dances. The chorus will sing, "Now is the Merry Month of May," and other old songs. Musicians will descend from a coach to play their instruments, with the performance of a ballet dancer. Civil War soldiers will return in the midst of the merry making.

This will be followed by the grand finale and a hymn of peace. The location for the pageant has not yet been settled upon, but several places are being considered.

At the meeting recruit gatherers were organized, dates for rehearsals announced and a time set for looking over costume designs. The costume committee, under the direction of Miss Mary Boggs, Mrs. Dyrus Cook Miss Fritz Smith, announced that the Woodstock Art Gallery will be ready for their occupation on Friday. From 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock on Friday and Saturday evenings, and every day of the following week the gallery will be open for anyone who wants to consult upon designs and materials for costumes.

A few parts have been assigned, including that to George Neher, who will take the part of Johannes Hardenburgh, who in 1706 bought of Nanisnons, the Indian, one of Woodstock's earliest properties. This dramatization, like other episodes in the pageant, is taken from actual historical episodes in Woodstock history. Other parts have been assigned to Mrs. Everett Cashdollar as medicine woman; Ned Thatcher as town crier; John Peper, as blacksmith, etc.

A recruiting committee was selected, including Mrs. Charles Hasbrouck, Mrs. Lillian Downer, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd and others. The headquarters of the sequentennial in the town clerk's office is open every day except Saturday from 10 to 4 o'clock. Any suggestions or offers of assistance will be warmly received in this office.

As plans are now working out the celebration promises to be of statewide interest, as well as having the wholehearted support of hundreds of Woodstockers. The committee in charge admits that Woodstock has launched upon a tremendous undertaking, but this very fact has brought the enthusiasm of a group of people equally large and quite capable of making a success of an undertaking in which nearly all will have an active part.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, April 28—The Choral Society met in the Woodstock school on Monday evening to practice for their part in the approaching sequentennial celebration.

The Country Club golf course had an active week-end, with many golfers enjoying their first game of the season.

The interior of the Woodstock Art Gallery is to be painted this week in preparation for its use as costume headquarters for the sequentennial.

Mrs. Mary Metzler, with her sister, and her daughter, Eleanor Metzler, are staying in Mrs. Anna Short's cottage, "The Band Box," while arranging for the building of a new home in Zena. Their former home there was swept away and completely destroyed by the flood in 1935.

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Berthach are leaving Woodstock to occupy an apartment they have secured in New York. Mr. Berthach has found employment there.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee McFee are expected here toward the last of the week. Their home is being made ready for their return. On their arrival they will probably be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nell McD. Ives, with whom they are accustomed to spending their first few days in Woodstock.

Dr. J. O. Arnold returned from California on Saturday, accompanied by Mrs. Bertha Druecklieb. They enjoyed a pleasant steamer voyage from New Orleans. Dr. Arnold is always delighted to return to Woodstock in the spring.

Mrs. Larry Elwyn is steadily improving after her recent attack of pneumonia. The trained nurses have been dismissed and she is now attended by a domestic nurse.

A meeting of the library book committee was held in the home of Mr. Norman T. Boggs on Monday afternoon. Tea was enjoyed following the discussion of books.

Mr. and Mrs. John Striebel purchased a new car last week and will drive to the Thousand Islands on May 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Englebert Roentgen are in Woodstock for a few days. They will return later for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lemay are expected about May 25 from Duluth, Minn., where Mr. Lemay conducts the Duluth Symphony Orchestra every season. Mrs. Lemay plans to spend the summer here.

Vincent Avery injured his knee and broke a wrist when he fell from a roof on the estate of Mrs. Victor Cannon, where he is employed.

Mrs. Marjorie Kleinert has opened her home here for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kinabury are here for a short time, spending their mountain home. Their daughter, Virginia, is at Swantonville and their daughter, Jean, is working for her mother's degree at Columbia University. She is majoring in French. All plan to spend the summer in Woodstock.

Miss Gretchen Smith is leaving for New York city Friday morning where she will be employed at the Virginia Day Nursery until June 11, at which time she will return to open her own school here in Woodstock. "The Children's House."

Lillian Orloff, of New York, visited her brother, Charles Orloff, in Woodstock for the week-end.

Assembly Approves Conway Measure

Albany, April 28 (Special)—Assembly approval, has been given to the bill of Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, Republican of Kingston, amending the insurance law, to require the state insurance superintendent to make annual valuation of outstanding contracts and obligations of each life or casualty insurance corporation on the co-operations or assessment plan.

Under provisions of the measure the first valuation would be made in December, 1937. Assemblyman Conway's bill now goes to the senate for concurrence, where a companion measure is being sponsored by Sen. for Duncan T. O'Brien, Democrat of New York, and Chairman of the state insurance committee.

LOST AND FOUND: one daughter

Two telephones in a police station recently began ringing at the same time. "I've lost my daughter," anxiously reported one caller. "I've found a little girl," said the other. Both calls were about the same child, who, needless to say, was soon safe at home.

When you're looking for somebody or something—from a button to a buyer—a telephone call is the quickest way to get on the trail. So we repeat: Reach for the telephone before you reach for your hat—save time, steps and worry. New York Telephone Company.

Revival of Rosendale Cement 'Industry Booms Ulster County'

In 1825, an engineer by the name of Canvass White, employed by the Albany and Hudson Canal Company, which was building through Rosendale at that period, discovered that he thought was lime rock. He endeavored to burn this rock and when he put it to this test, it would crack off. When water was added to it, he noted that the mass commenced to harden and after a short period it became well nigh breakable.

A year later a man by the name of Watson E. Lawrence made further discoveries concerning the properties of the rock found in the vicinity of Rosendale, and in 1828 he opened the first commercial mill for the manufacture of cement. Thus a great industry was opened in Rosendale, which was destined to rise to great heights, fall almost into disunion and in 1920, to revive again and to continue its rise until today.

The Century Cement Corporation is making plans to install new machinery and to double the output of its plant, which at the present time amounts to about 60,000 barrels a day. It has ample facilities for storage and shipping.

Revives Industry in 1920

The revival of the local cement industry is a direct result of the confidence and faith of A. J. Snyder, who believed in the age-defying durability of the natural cement, and spent experimenting with the rock on the local mines until in 1920 he installed a small mill to manufacture cement for the masonry trade.

In 1928 a group of business men from Cleveland formed the Century Cement Company, and a modern plant was constructed on the site where an earlier generation of the Snyder family operated cement quarries and kilns.

Two local buildings constructed with Rosendale cement are the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital and the Ponckhockie Congregational Church. The church was built in 1870 during the period when the Ulster product was at its height of popularity, and is an example of monolithic concrete work, which means that the church is built in the solid place, and the block effect is just marks chiseled in the solid, one-piece walls.

One of the reasons for the decline of the natural cement was that it required longer to set or harden, and in this age of speed, time is an important factor. The Portland or manufactured cement, is blended with other ingredients that cause it to set much quicker, but it has not the durability of the natural product. Few measures have been taken through careful burning, exact proportioning, and fine grinding, to maintain the strength and plasticity inherent in the natural cement rock, and by the addition of certain chemicals, to control the set and make the product waterproof and non-efflorescent.

Mining and Burning

The cement rock occurs in two different veins, the lower being dark in color and about 21 feet thick while the upper vein is light rock about 11 feet thick. These two layers are separated by a 15-foot vein of limestone. The present main entrance to the mine is on the level of 221 ft. level, where three rooms are being worked, each 25 to 40 feet in width and one about 1,500 feet from the main entrance, and the entire mine is well lighted and ventilated.

Drilling is accomplished with rockhammers driven by an air-compressor unit located just inside the mine entrance. The rock is loaded by hand into two-yard, V-type, side-dump, steel cars which are hauled by an eight-ton gasoline locomotive on a 26-inch gauge track that runs the length of the workings and down to the kilns, where they are backed on a scale, weighed with a scale, and then dumped into the kilns.

The calcining is done in eight vertical shaft kilns of the mixed-feed type using buckwheat anthracite coal. The coal is spread between each bed of rock in the proportion of about six to seven per cent by weight of the raw stone. As the loss of weight by burning is about 25 per cent, the ratio of burned material to coal is around 14 to 1, indicating a very efficient calcining operation. About 60 pounds of raw material are required for one barrel of cement.

The calcined rock is drawn from the kilns, hand-picked to remove any pieces of slag, and put through a horizontal open-door type crusher, reducing it to 3/4-inch material. A conveyor elevator carries it up to a set of three bins over the loading end of the aerial tramway which transports the crushed calcined material to the main building for finishing and grinding.

This aerial tramway is quite a surprising system, housing 14 cars spaced about 100 feet apart, with a capacity of about 30 barrels an hour, and a possibility of tripling this capacity by the addition of more cars. This line runs about 2,500 feet and carries about 224 feet as it travels from the kilns to the mill. Each car carries nine cubic feet of material or enough for 2 1/4 barrels of cement and the speed is nearly 214 feet per minute. The supporting towers are spaced 200 feet apart.

The Cement Mill

Arriving at the mill, the tram cars discharge their loads into three small bins where the mixing takes place. Loaded against a wrong mix by some in the feed hoppers of the ball-mill, which will automatically cut off the power until the correct amount for the mix has been secured. After being proportioned by the feed hoppers and the additional material added, the whole is thoroughly mixed and then elevated and conveyed to a steel bin over the Raymond mill for the first grinding. The Raymond mill is a five-roll, low-side system which reduces the mixture to fine texture, but as a finer grain is still demanded, the mix goes next to the tube mill, where it is finished in extreme fineness and then stored in the silos for storage bins. The material from the tube mill is elevated and conveyed to a point over a packer bin where it either goes over a three-foot vibrating screen and into a packer bin, or else it is elevated 40 feet to a 36-foot screw conveyor over the tops of the storage silos.

The silos, eight in number were constructed by the Burrell Engineering and Construction Co., and by a Rosendale concern, the James Fahey Construction Co. They are 23 1/2 feet in diameter, and 53 feet high, feet high measured from the floor line, with 7 inch reinforced concrete walls. These silos have a capacity of about 6,000 barrels each. The finished cement is packed in paper bags bearing the Century label, and each contains one cubic foot, taking four bags to make a barrel.

Originally the mill was designed to produce 3,000 barrels a day, but new machinery is being added which will double the output. This new equipment will include an additional tube mill, a Griffin mill, screw conveyors and elevators.

Varieties of Cement

Four varieties of cement are now produced. Light masonry and dark masonry cement are used for regular brick work. A black cement, used in building state roads, is manufactured, and to this product is given the credit for the business boom now being enjoyed by the company. Tests carried on by the state department have shown that a mixture of the Rosendale natural product and the Portland cement make better concrete roads, and with the extensive road-building program that is being pushed forward, the demand for the local product is great. The fourth variety is a stainless white cement which is used on the fronts of buildings, and will not discolor with age.

A siding of the Wallkill Valley railroad runs right to the door of the mill, located back on the hill above the quarry, and makes the shipping of the product an easy matter.

A complete laboratory is located in the basement of the company's office for physical and chemical testing of the product, a procedure which occurs hourly to insure uniform high quality. Research work is also carried on looking to further development of new products and improvement of the present output.

Equipment in this laboratory consists of a small electrically heated kiln, a miniature mill, testing machines which show the strength of bits of the hardened product down to the square inch, water baths, and chemicals — thus making possible the testing for various qualities including resistance to water, compression and tensile strength, all of which increase with age.

Thus an industry, that had its beginning in 1828 through an accidental discovery, that rose to take its place as one of the leading industries of this section in the latter part of the century and then gave way to the modern age of speed, is now forging ahead to again place Rosendale and Ulster county on the map as a territory that is not only rich in historical heritage but also contains some of the leading industries of the country.

Here is a bit of wisdom: "A man like to be told that he is right even if he knows he is wrong. We all like to be bragged on and told how useful and how good-looking and how young we are. We know particularly well that we are not as young as we used to be, but nevertheless swell out our chest and say what a good man we are whenever anybody comes up and says: "You do not look a day

We know better, of course, the can-

Grocer (smiling amiably)—Yes,

She (severely)—You should not

Grocer—But, why not, miss? It is lovely cheese!

She (trying to combine maidenly

Because—because lovely should only be used to qualify something that is alive.

Grover (his smile broadening as he glanced at the Gorgonzola)—Well, miss, I'll stick to "lovely."

Girl (still crying)—No, dear.
That's not it. I am crying for pure has!

New Deal Has Made Power Permanent, Says Virgil Jordon

Washington, April 28 (AP)—President Virgil Jordon of the National Industrial Conference Board contended today the Roosevelt administration has built "a vast political organization designed to maintain it in permanent power."

His general denunciation of the President's policies, prepared for the convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was the first of the meeting.

Asserting that governmental mechanisms forged by the administration are designed to bring about "a system of state capitalism," Jordon said: "The most important thing to remember about this governmental juggernaut is that it is irreversible. No matter how many there are who may desire it reversed, no political leader or party today would try to reverse it."

Reciting various administration policies, Jordon said these set up governmental machinery "that has been operating during the past four years to undermine and destroy the (private) enterprise order."

"It is engineered out of error, forged out of falsehood and driven by the power of mass delusion mobilized by demagoguery."

The National Industrial Conference Board makes studies of economic problems, issuing statistical and other reports. It has headquarters in New York.

F. W. Litchfield of Akron, O., president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, urged establishment of a Democratic basis between labor and management for conducting negotiations on wages, hours and working conditions.

"There can be no assurance of economic stability under conditions approximating a labor-dictatorship," he said, "nor can we achieve progress with the working man oppressed by autocratic capital. These paths lead to Communism or Fascism."

Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, replied to suggestions by other speakers that the Wagner labor relations law should be revamped to fix responsibilities of labor unions. He contended experience with the act should be acquired "before we begin to write new laws."

"I do not for a moment condone or content for any irresponsibility on the part of labor," he said, "but I do not jump from that principle to the immediate conclusion that some new statutory action is the way to complete responsibility."

These leaders have a responsibility far heavier than any law could lay upon them. They have the responsibility for the life and limb—for the peace and welfare of their constituents."

Unless labor can bargain collectively through representatives "wholly independent of employer influence," McGrady said, "there is no real bargaining at all and wage rates are only an arbitrary decree of a more or less beneficent despotism fixing the conditions of labor in its own untrammelled discretion."

He advised his listeners not to try to stop labor unionism "but to use it and make it work."

FEDERATION WOMEN EXPECT "FIREWORKS"

Tulsa, Okla., April 28 (AP)—The prospective fireworks over a resolution condemning President Roosevelt's Supreme Court reorganization proposal edged nearer today at the convention of the American Federation of Women's Clubs.

The controversial resolution was up today for first reading. Tomorrow night Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, an opponent of the court proposal, and Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan, a proponent, will debate the question.

"After their fireworks," said Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, general president of the Federation, "we may have some of our own."

Man Arrested for Violation of Law Adopted in 1881

Police Arrest William Moore on Charge of Scattering Contents of Containers Placed at Curb for Collectors Over Street and Walk—First Arrest Under Old Law in Years Here.

After receiving a number of complaints from householders that scavengers were scattering the contents of containers placed at the curb to be collected by the Board of Public Works the police department invoked the provisions of a city ordinance adopted on April 22, 1881, by the common council and last evening arrested William Moore, 47, of 69 Cedar street.

For the past few years men and boys have made it a practice to go through the residential, as well as the business sections, and rummage through the containers placed at the curb, containing old papers and other refuse. These scavengers used little hand-drawn wagons, wheelbarrows, and even old automobiles in which to make collections.

Mr. Moore was arrested under the provisions of the ordinance, which forbids anyone to scatter any waste materials or refuse in the street.

Mr. Moore when arraigned before Judge Culliton in police court this morning stated that he had rummaged through containers set on the curb on Albany avenue last evening, but denied that he had scattered any of the material in the streets. He decided, however, to plead guilty to the charge and informed Judge Culliton that he would discontinue the practice of hunting through containers and collecting papers and other refuse.

Judge Culliton said that through his own personal observation he was aware of the fact that Moore was not the only scavenger in the city but that Moore was the first one to be brought into court. For that reason the judge said he would suspend the serving of any sentence, but advised Moore to stick to his statement that he would discontinue the practice of hunting through containers placed at the curb.

Judge Culliton said that he had been informed that a number of householders complained of the practice, and that was the reason why the police department had decided that the only way to abate the nuisance was by making arrests.

Woman Arrested
Mrs. Frances Mooney, 35, of Pittsfield, Mass., was arrested Tuesday afternoon on charges of panhandling on North Front street and also of public intoxication. This morning she pleaded guilty and Judge Culliton fined her $3.

Mistaken Identity, Theory
New York, April 28 (AP)—The possibility of mistaken identity was investigated by police today in their search for clues in the stabbing of Municipal Court Justice John F. O'Neill. One detail of detectives worked almost exclusively on the theory the justice might have been attacked by a man who actually intended someone else as his victim. The 65-year-old justice lived quietly, handled no criminal cases and was not known to have any enemies. Justice O'Neill rallied today, after a second blood transfusion just before midnight. He had been in a grave condition, two knife wounds in his back.

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "Breezing Home." A racing story that is brisk in action and brisker in romance clatters in exciting fashion on the Broadway screen with William Gargan, Binnie Barnes and Irene Hervey in the featured roles. It's all about the trials of the race track racket and the show is alive with rapid action, double crossing and some appropriate dialogue. The race track sequences are well filmed and thrilling.

Kingston: "Stop Lively Jeeves" and "Murder Goes to College." That perfect Englishman's man, Jeeves, created in fiction by Woodhouse and now considered one of the most beloved of the world's fiction characters, goes through a series of remarkably funny adventures in the show at the Kingston and the show stars Arthur Treacher in the title role. "Murder Goes to College" is the other feature, a harum-scarum murder mystery that starts and ends on a college campus. It's exciting at times and Marsha Hunt and Homoe Kohn give satisfactory performances.

Orpheum: "Come and Get It." Edna Ferber's best selling novel of a ruthless lumber baron who finally found his match in nature. Itself, comes to the Orpheum with Edward Arnold starred and helped along by a cast of fine players including Joel McCrea. This production has a sweep and a color about it that makes for fine entertainment.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "History Is Made at Night." Galety, despair, tragedy and an emotional shipwreck climax that reaches to new heights in screen achievement is to be seen on the Broadway screen with the French Charles Boyer and the American Jean Arthur starred after a series of signal successes in other pictures. The play revolves around the eternal triangle theme and it grows pretty stormy at times. It is purely adult entertainment, cleverly conceived and capably directed by Frank Borzage. A Walter Wanger production released through United Artists and featuring Colin Clive and Leo Carrillo.

The WORLD of STAMPS

By QUINTON JAMES

Designs for some of the coronation stamps of the British empire are beginning to appear. Two dominions, Canada and the Union of South Africa, have theirs prepared. Canada is issuing a single 3-cent denomination. It is horizontal oblong, bearing the portraits of the new king and queen side by side, with their names directly below. Between their pictures is the date 1937.

South Africa is issuing a set of six denominations for the coronation. The single design shows a sculptured bas relief head of King George, profile left, against a dark background. "Coronation" is lettered at the top of the decorative frame, with the crown to the left. At the bottom is "South Africa," with the numeral of value to the right.

Alternate stamps in each sheet are printed in English and Afrikaans like all the stamps of this dominion. The denominations are to be 1/2, 1, 1 1/2, 2 and 5 pence, and 1 shilling.

Because Canada is issuing only one coronation stamp, and because the mother country and some of its other divisions may follow a similar plan, New York philatelists believe the total coronation stamps for the empire will be less than the 249 issued for George V's Silver Jubilee in 1935.

Potato Stamps' Fate "Spud" stamps once worth about $2,000,000 are headed for the discard. These are the revenues originally intended for potato tax stamps.

Officials of the agricultural adjustment administration have started counting a huge stack of these stamps—they've been locked in a safe at Washington—preparatory to turning them back to the treasury. No one will say whether they will be burned or put on the philatelic market.

Congress repealed the potato act, along with the tobacco and Rankine act, about a year ago after the Supreme Court invalidated the original AAA. Officials say about 100,000 in tax-exempt stamps were in the hands of potato growers, mostly in Florida, at that time, and no attempt has been made to retrieve them.

Czech Special Collectors In this country they might be called "person to person" stamps—these two new triangles from Czechoslovakia. Their presence on a let-

Clipper Service to Asia Reality Now

Hongkong, April 28 (AP)—A thirty-year dream of round-the-world air service became reality today with the arrival of the Hongkong clipper from Manila on the first regular flight between the two cities.

The clipper, bridging the last 700-mile gap in the America-Asia service, placed the final link in an airplane chain whereby it is possible to encircle the world in less than a month, using scheduled commercial planes.

The craft brought 2,500 pounds of American cargo, including 100,000 letters and newspapers from the United States only six days old.

A vehicle tunnel is to be constructed under the river Meuse in Holland at a cost of $7,500,000. It will have lanes for automobile traffic, bicycles and pedestrians.

Civil War Veteran Has 89th Birthday At Port Ewen Home

One of the three remaining Civil War veterans in Ulster county, John Holliday of Port Ewen, is celebrating his 89th birthday today at his home. He is deluged with congratulations, some from Colorado and other distant points. The other two veterans are a Mr. Cole of Ulster Park, and Mr. Birmingham of Maple Hill.

Mr. Holliday was born in Fort Montgomery on the Hudson river, and has been employed as a boatman most of his life. The house where he was born has since been torn down and the West Shore Railroad tracks pass over the spot with the Hudson River Dayline pier occupying the place of the veteran's front yard. The name of the place has also been changed to Bear Mountain.

Mr. Holliday's father, A. B. Holliday, was captain and owner of the freighter, "Anna Marler," operating on the Hudson river, and it was on this boat that the Port Ewen resident began his career.

Civil War Service.

The advent of the Civil War saw Mr. Holliday enlist on October 4, 1864, in the Corps of Regular Engineers at West Point. There were four companies of 50 men each in this corps. After a period of three months' training at the Point, the corps joined the Army of the Potomac under General U. S. Grant before Petersburg, and the local man was in active service building bridges and fortifications during the chasing of General Lee to Bertsville, where the Confederate leader surrendered. Holliday's company was sent to Washington for a six-months' period, and he was discharged upon the outfit's return to West Point, after serving for three years.

On March 29, 1888, John Holliday married Mary A. Walton of Fall River, Mass., and the couple celebrated their 49th anniversary this year. At the close of the war, John Holliday entered the employ of the Cornell Steamboat Co., on the towboats, "Isaac M. North" and "Ceres," operating between Rondout and Newburgh. Then he went to Long Island Sound, working for the Eastern Transportation Line. Five summers were spent at Providence, R. I., on the excursion boats, two of which were known as the "Bay Queen" and the "Day Star," and then the Port Ewen man became captain of the freighter, "Peekskill." Later he became captain of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad barge, "Pequest." He was captain of this boat for 27 years. The "Pequest" carried 1,500 tons of anthracite and operated along the Atlantic coast line from Boston to Virginia.

Now Retired

John Holliday retired 16 years ago on May 10, and now resides with his wife in Port Ewen where he has made his home for the last 41 years. He has been a member of the Independent and Order of Odd Fellows for 62 years, and a Past Noble Grand of that lodge for 58 years having recently been presented with a jewel in honor of long service. He is also a 41 year member of the Masons, joining the Cold Spring lodge and later transferring to Peekskill.

The retired boatman's hobby is walking, and he made a point of walking from three to five miles each day during his sojourn in Florida this winter. Both he and his wife are enjoying good health and are looking forward to the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary on March 29 of next year.

RIFTON.

Rifton, April 26.—The members of the Rifton M. E. Church are glad to welcome as their pastor the Rev. James T. Legg of Port Ewen. The Rev. Mr. Legg will conduct preaching services at the church every Sunday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

Miss Dorothy Schikler of Maple street is spending a week in New York city as the guest of her sister, Mrs. George Clements.

The friends and neighbors of the Kidd family were sorry to hear of the misfortune they suffered when their garage and home was destroyed by fire recently.

Among the week-enders were Arthur Tracy and Hebert Bedell. Julius Eckert has accepted a position at Lake Mohonk for the coming season. He left Monday to accept same.

The 4-H Clubs and Rock School will hold their plays at Rifton Hall on Thursday evening, May 6. It is hoped a large number will attend, to encourage the children in their work.

Pat Condon is ill at the hospital and his neighbors and friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Wagner, of the Cedar Glen Poultry Farm, became the parents of a boy recently.

Mrs. Emberson has rented the other half of her house of Maple street to parties from Connelly.

The interdenominational mission will hold its regular preaching service Sunday in Rifton school at 3:15 p. m., Hebert Bedell in charge. Everybody welcome.

Mrs. Fred Yake is again in Yonkers attending her sister, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Rapp and Mr. and Mrs. Hughes of New Jersey were recent guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Woelber, of Maple street.

Cheese Wizardry
Cheeses, every epicure recognizes, rely for their distinctive flavors on a fungus called penicillium. Its function is to create the mold without which most cheeses would be distastefully anaemic. Included in its family group are innumerable sub-varieties, each with a singular characteristic. Those famous Roquefort caves in France, where millions of cheeses ripen annually, are infested with Penicillium Roqueforti, and its presence accounts for this local industry's world-wide reputation, according to London Tit-Bits Magazine.

Girl Sticks to Story In Murder Trial

New Haven, Conn., April 25 (AP).—Three hours of rigorous cross-examination failed to alter the story of 19-year-old comely Neta L. Shaw that the killer of Deputy Sheriff Peter Kaminski was John A. Palm, 25, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., whose trial on a first degree murder charge entered its second day today in superior court.

Miss Shaw, who named Palm the hold-up slayer yesterday, was in a parked automobile at an isolated beach in Milford with Kaminski and another man and woman when the Beacon Falls peace officer was killed the morning of October 3.

She held steadfastly to her story under the lengthy questioning of Judge William M. Harney of Hartford, associated with Elliott Cohen of Mt. Vernon in the defense of the young ex-convict who has served a Sing Sing term for attempted robbery in New York city.

Another link in the chain of evidence the state hopes will send Palm to the electric chair was forged by Ward P. Pease of Milford, who lives next door to the Milford house which the defendant and his mother occupied last summer and fall.

He testified that Palm drove a light tan four-door sedan which he habitually kept cleaned and polished.

Previously Miss Shaw testified that the bandit who shot Kaminski made his getaway in a light gray four-door sedan, the body of which was shiny in the bright moonlight.

Pease said Palm usually kept his car in a driveway alongside his home but that on Saturday, October 3, he shifted the parking place to the rear of his house.

Observers believed that the trial, conducted before three judges with no jury, would be ended late tomorrow.

May Trial Term Cases Announced

County Clerk James A. Simpson on Tuesday afternoon called the calendar of causes for the May trial term of Supreme Court and made up a day calendar of ready cases. Supreme Court will convene at 11 o'clock Monday morning for report of grand and trial jurors and the presenting of excuses. The calendar will be taken up at 2 o'clock.

MADRID AFTER AN ARTILLERY BLAST

These militiamen are patrolling a Madrid street littered with debris and flanked by ruined buildings following a heavy artillery bombardment by the insurgents.

Basques Battle Grimly to Stem Tide Of Rebel Advance

Headave, Franco-Spanish Border, April 25 (AP).—Grimly determined Basques turned a Durango Church into a fortress today in a dramatic attempt to stem the march of strong insurgent northern armies on Bilbao, their regional capital.

The Basques, members of three dedicated battalions crammed the Church of Santa Maria in Durango, just 16 miles from Bilbao, drugged their cannon within the walls and blasted at insurgent attackers in furious salvos.

But insurgent advances indicated they stand might be in vain. These reports said the vanguard of one of three insurgent columns which are marching to the sea had encircled Durango and, already, was hurrying virtually unopposed along the broad highway toward Bilbao.

In that Basque capital, seat of important munitions industries and one of the last government stands on the Bay of Biscay on Spain's northwest ledge, authorities began to consider evacuation of every woman and child.

Intense fighting raged around the once peaceful church in Durango. Forces of insurgent General Emilio Mola appeared confident they soon would capture the edifice. But the Basques believed a successful defense might save both Durango and Bilbao.

Southeast of Durango, on the other side from Bilbao, daring Basque raiders blew up a bridge and slowed the movement of main insurgent forces into the city. The span was being repaired by Mola's troops. Ten small towns were taken by the three advancing insurgent columns: Marquina, Echebarria, Urdinaka, Holiyar, Arrozola, Ayel, Apantamon, Asuelo, Abadano, Acarror and Basterroche.

Coil of Snakes

The rattlesnake is typical of the snakes that coil before striking. As soon as it is alarmed, it throws its body into a coil, with head raised a little above the rest of the body. When ready to spring, the muscles of the upper part of the snake are suddenly contracted, so as to straighten the body abruptly and thrust the head forward in a direct line. As the upper part of the body only is employed, the snake never strikes at a greater distance than one-third to one-half its length.

They Both Work

The Pair Who Won $3 Dancing Are Married And In The Money

Hotel Is Home To Yolanda And Veloz

By SIGRID ARNE

(AP Feature Service Writer)

Third in a Series

New York—Two impertinent blackbirds are all the "home" Veloz and Yolanda have.

They hang their hats just now in the Plaza Hotel on Central park. But soon they'll be off to London's gilded night life. They'll hurry back to the Plaza, then on to Miami.

That's the way they've lived the last eight years they have been married. So they haven't a single thing of what other people call "lounge chairs, towels or pottery."

The two blackbirds (they look like crows and chatter like parrots) the bill instead. Veloz and Yolanda haul them everywhere in cages tipped with hot water bottles to keep the temperature right. They "em" "Schnuckles" and "Gaby."

"Schnuckles" waddles about looking wise, and croaking at Veloz; "Gaby" home. When do we go?

"We" don't go out much. Yolanda is in the four-figures-a-week salary class. There's only one other pair of dancers who rate money. So the Veloz pair take good care of their health.

Met At Contest

When they met they had no thought of spangled dresses for Yolanda; now they cozier for hours or such delicacies. She was a little Italian-American high school girl who decided to try her luck at public dance contests in New York. Frank, the son of a Dutch mother and a Venezuelan father, was working in a credit office. He happened to enter the same dance contest.

"We met danced together, and as all of three dollars; not three dollars, but three together." They parted over that.

"You should see our collection of

Veloz And Yolanda
Frank Grabs All The Easy Parts

cup—all tin," laughs Yolanda.

"Then we won so many prizes they barred us from contests," says Veloz. "We danced exhibitions, earned nothing, rode to the ballrooms on subways, and had coffee and doughnuts afterward."

Make Up Own Dances

But they kept on until contracts came. Then they realized they had never taken a dancing lesson, and shuddered. The "Apache" dance was popular. They walked into a studio and put down $15 to learn it. Then another horrible truth dawned. They had made up no many dances that they couldn't learn from anyone else. So they got a $7.50 refund. That's the only "lesson" they ever took.

They call their dances "routines." They pick up ideas for them anywhere. For instance they went to see Frank Buck's "Bring 'em Back Alive," and they were so entranced by the fight of the python and the tiger that they created the "Cobra Tango" which they do now at the Plaza during dinner and the after-theatre hour.

Jig-Saws Break Monotony

Their work keeps them chained to the hotel. They eat their dinner early, about 4 in the afternoon, to feel light for their first program at the dinner hour. Then they hide out in their apartment until the midnight show.

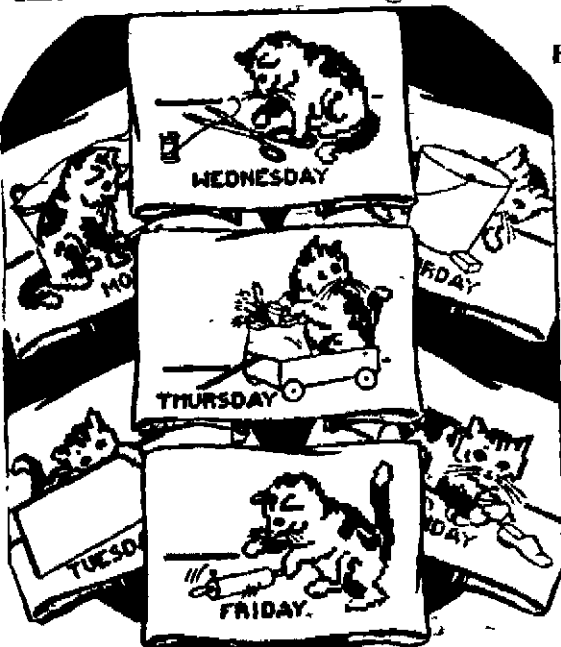

Yolanda just had a bright idea about that hiding out. She rushed out and bought Frank four jig-saw puzzles of 300 pieces each. That keeps them busy between programs. Frank grabs all the easy parts.

"But he puts together twice as much as I do," she smiles.

"Schnuckles" flops onto the puzzle at that point and announced solemnly "Nobody Home."

Marlborough, May 28—Last Tuesday evening, in the Clinton Ford Pavilion, near Rosendale, about 150 persons attended the annual banquet sponsored by the local chapter of the Catholic Daughters of America. Those attending from here made the trip by one of the Diamond "D" buses driven by Lewis Chidgey and private cars. West Marlborough people are taking steps to call a meeting of legal voters in the old West Marlborough school district, now part of the new Central system, to decide what to do with their local school building.

Voters in the old West Marlborough Mount Zion and Lattintown districts are the only ones who can decide whether or not to close their local schools and send their grade children to the new school in the village, where 7th and 8th grades and high school pupils will all go next year. There are several choices the people of the old districts can make.

The sum of $150 was cleared by the Marlborough High School Senior Class play "Here Comes Patricia," which was given last Friday evening in the Methodist Church gym. The proceeds from the play will be used by the class for expenses incurred by the class.

The members of the Marlborough Players voted at the regular meeting on Monday evening to have Douglas Gray as the club's next director. He will take up his duties in September, when another play will begin rehearsals. It was decided to give $15 to Miss Harriet Tooker to be used for needed improvements in the Riverside Cemetery. The next meeting will be held on Monday evening, May 3, in the local home rooms.

Marlborough stores will remain open longer, beginning on Monday evening, April 26, when they will remain open until seven o'clock. During the winter months they close at six o'clock.

Roosevelt Seeks New Means to Check Climbing Prices

Washington, April 28 (AP)—Administration authorities, guided by restatement of President Roosevelt's views, cast about today for new means to check climbing prices and prevent monopoly.

The President before leaving on a southern fishing trip, expressed his views in three ways:

He advised against speculation in a stock market.

He made public a report from Attorney General Cummings saying rejection of anti-trust laws was desirable "in the face of the present tendency to increase prices."

He wrote Vice President Garner of the present hazard of undue advances in prices, voicing opposition to a bill by Senator Tydings (D., Md.) to legalize certain price maintenance understandings.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement on stock market speculation came as an aftermath to his recent request that government workers should avoid securities gambling.

Asked whether this advice also was addressed to the general public, he replied he had been saying so since 1927.

Mr. Roosevelt cited a small New York town in which most of the residents lost their savings by playing on the market on margin during the 1929 boom.

In reply to a question, however, he said he was not technically informed as to whether an increase in present margin requirements would put a damper on speculation.

Traders at present must put up 55 per cent of the purchase price of securities in cash. The Federal Reserve Board has authority to boost this to 100 per cent.

Securities commission authorities reported they were keeping a check on speculation and indicated any signs of a dangerous security upturn would be discussed with the reserve board.

The President's action in making public Cummings' report indicated to informed authorities that he may follow the attorney general's suggestion to create a committee to examine the anti-trust laws.

Asked whether such a group would be named, Mr. Roosevelt said something would be done.

With various officials warning of inflation dangers in recent weeks, some administration spokesmen have viewed tighter anti-monopoly laws as a powerful weapon of price control.

Cummings' suggestion for a re-amping of anti-trust statutes was appended to his findings on a federal trade commission report, charging a group of steel companies with collusion in submitting identical bids to government agencies.

He asserted the commission investigation had not produced sufficient evidence to warrant criminal or civil litigation by the justice department and said remedies in the hands of the commission may be better adapted to that particular complaint.

Moore Installed Dictator of Moose

George W. Moore of Kingston, was installed as Dictator of Kingston Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, at a well attended meeting held at Moose Home, Cedar street, last evening.

The meeting was attended by Supreme Lodge officers who acted as installing officers.

As one of his first official acts after being installed as Dictator, Mr. Moore who has served for 18 years as secretary, launched a membership drive and extolled the services rendered by the lodge.

Officers installed were: George W. Moore, dictator; Leonard J. Stauble, vice-dictator; Edward J. Heckle, president; John B. Houtlock, treasurer; Anthony J. Erena, secretary; Morris H. Block, Michael DeCicco and William Robertson, trustees.

Regional Director Edward J. T. DeLoach of the "Child City" of Moosehead, Ill., where children of deceased members are educated and taught trades which are useful in their daily lives. He also spoke of Moosehead where aged members may live in their accustomed manner.

Following the business meeting a corned beef and cabbage supper was served under the direction of Morris H. Block. Members of the lodge gave a vote of thanks to Mr. DeLoach for the excellent menu which had been prepared.

Growing Tree as Memorial

Luther Burbank was born March 7, 1849. A growing tree in Santa Rosa, Calif., marks his resting place. "The plant mind is subconscious, but it is there," said Burbank. It responds to environment. Plants can feel. A shudder runs through the forest with the flames. Some plants permit insects to only a certain type to take away their pollen. The mind of the hop vine whispers it to wind around the pole in but one direction. Expansion and contraction of cells in plants are heart beats—a minute. Plants are our distant relatives.

They travel 100,000 miles to store one drop of water. A. J. Schultz of the Wisconsin Forekeepers' Association estimates. That means 20,000 trips.

Five Teams in City Ball League, Another Club is Sought for Loop

Maroon Will Open DUSO Season At Ellenville May 1

Kingston High, beaten 5-4 by the Alumni in the opener, will attempt to launch the defense of its DUSO crown by conquering Ellenville in the initial league fracas at the village's diamond Saturday afternoon.

The Millermen meet the village outfit in the league opener in one of the three out-of-town jaunts listed on the 1937 baseball card. Coach Miller's boys were turned back by one of the finest Alumni units ever corralled in their first start and are anxious to get a start down victory lane.

Ellenville has fared ill against local outfits under the Kias regime and the Maroon outfit should take the Clarkamen over to register their first victory of the year. The DUSO loop will get under way Saturday in a curtailed diamond slate.

Based on their slugging performance in the Alumni contest, the varsity edition can stand plenty of hitting practice. Albeit the fact that Jimmy Martin and Ben Toffel were in superb form, the high school hitters blew numerous scoring chances with men on the bases and climaxed a weak hitting afternoon by passing up two grand chances in the late innings. Past performances have shown that the team that possesses the hitting power generally rules the DUSO roost and the locals had better begin to start powdering that pill if they are to repeat last year's conquests. Defensively, the infield fumbled capably with the outfield failing to get the jump on a number of chances, contributing to the defeat.

There was plenty of enthusiasm, presaging a good season with plenty of lively competition for City League fans to watch during the coming summer.

Important Bowling Meeting Tonight Of All Captains

A special meeting of all bowling captains of the city will be held tonight at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 to elect officers to the city association.

Election will be for three years and all captains are urged to be present in order to choose suitable candidates.

With bowling due for a big upturn next season, it is urgent that capable and responsible officials be elected to the city association, which is the supreme bowling organization of the city. For that reason, the city association urges the presence of every captain who can possibly attend.

Predicts Tennis Win Over Japan

San Francisco, April 28 (AP)—The United States Davis cup team should beat Japan in zone eliminations here this week-end but probably is the weakest ever to represent this country, George H. Hudson said today.

He is the instructor at the Berkeley Tennis Club, proving ground of such past and present champions as Helen Wills Moody, Anna Harper, Helen Jacobs, J. Donald Budge and many others.

After watching Davis Cuppers Budge, Frankie Parker, Gene Mako and Hunt in practice, Hudson declared "these seem to be a weak spot in every one of our representatives this year."

Hudson was an American victory through Budge, winning his two singles matches. Parker, probable No. 2 man, taking his individual win and Budge and Mako teaming up to make the doubles event for a 4 to 1 odds-up of the three day competition.

"Our chief worry, however, is not so much in defeating Japan as our chances of beating the winner of the Australia-Mexico zone play. The Australian team should come through handsily. It will be a tough hurdle for any other nation in the world," he said.

West Point Team Seeking Games

Army Service Reserve baseball team of West Point would like to arrange games with local teams of this section. Any team interested in playing with the C. W. Lee football team should contact the West Point team at Box 42, West Point.

Colonial Ladies to Bowl This Evening At Emerick Alleys

A bowling doubleheader tonight at Emerick's alleys will feature the Colonial Ladies against the Middletown Shamrocks, and Tiano's All Stars against Larry Funnell's Middletown Stars.

The Shamrocks, one of the best women's teams along the Hudson river, won the championship of Middletown for two straight seasons. The club features the Isaman sisters and Miss Myrtha.

Colonial Ladies will use the match as a tuneup for the ladies bowling tournament to be held in Poughkeepsie next week. The local ladies, who have won three out of their last four matches, will use Gage, Miller, Gilbert, Hales, Creagh, McAuliffe and Peters.

Larry Funnell, one of the Hudson Valley League's leading keggers, will bring up a strong lineup to oppose the local men. Tom Pines, George Little, Bloddy Morris and Bert Matthews are expected to roll with the Middies. The local squad consists of Kellenberger, Petersen, Tiano, E. Whitaker, Rice and Emerick.

Stein Breaks Lull In A. B. C. Tourney

New York, April 24 (AP)—Max Stein, a lanky bowler from Belleville, Ill., is the hero of the American Bowling Congress, but Max has just started to bowl "I'll break the singles record at Chicago next year," says Max.

Just when the tournament was lapsing into a mid-week lull, Stein came along last night and broke records and shattered mandibles left and right. He set a new record in the all-events division tied for fourth in the doubles group, and equalled the sixth place mark in the singles.

Stein's average was 210 for nine games and his total 2,079, the latter mark beating the former record of 2,069 held by Gil Zunker, of Milwaukee, and made at Columbus, O., four years ago.

Stein scored 221-224-212 in the team event, 248-211-224 in the doubles, and then went to work to roll 267-257-204 in the singles.

It was only his second appearance in national tourney competition. He scored only 1,574 at Indianapolis to finish down the list last year.

Cathedral Boy Singers.

The Cathedral Boy Singers of Newark, N. J., will appear in the Port Ewen Reformed Church at the regular morning service on Sunday, May 2, and will present a program with a great variety of sacred music. The group of eight youthful artists, consisting of boys ranging in age from 12 to 17 years of age sing four part music. On one selection they sing six distinct parts and cover four octaves. These boys are not only able to sing high "C" but are fully capable of sustaining it for three full measures.
Glowing tributes to admirably rendered programs have been heard from clergymen of all creeds and denominations. Since its inception the chorus has traveled 20,000 miles by rail, boat and automobile and has sung in 10 states to well over 50,000 people.
In addition to the choruses there will be solos, duets and other specialties. Harry Wilsch Baker, founder and director, will briefly outline his plan of the movement.
The boys wear a white ensemble of shirt and trousers with flowing red and bright blue sashes. This affair promises to be of far more than ordinary importance. A special offering will be received in their behalf. The singers will also appear at the St. Remy Reformed Church at the afternoon service at 2:30 o'clock.

Kingston Choristers To Present Oratorio

Tuesday, May 4, in the high school auditorium, the Kingston Choristers, under the direction of Harry P. Dodge, will present the oratorio, "St. Paul," by Felix Mendelssohn.
The oratorio opens with the persecuted Christian Church in Jerusalem praying for power to resist the fury of the heathen. Stephen is accused of blasphemy by the incensed people and suffers martyrdom. Saul, who is present at the martyrdom resolves to continue his persecutions and journeys to Damascus. On his way, he is stricken with blindness. In bitter repentance, his sight is restored by Ananias, and he becomes a preacher. Part II of the oratorio deals with the preachings of Saul, who has taken the name of Paul. The oratorio closes with the chorus, "Not Only Unto Him".
Mendelssohn used the same style as Bach in his Passions, in which a chorus follows a solo.
The Kingston Choristers, who are under the sponsorship of the Y. W. C. A., will be augmented by male voices.

William S. Hogan 50 Years in Truck Business in City

Today marks the fiftieth anniversary of the entrance of William S. Hogan in the trucking business in the city of Kingston and as he passed the half century mark in business Mr. Hogan found little time to ponder over his long service to the citizens of Kingston and vicinity for it was near May first, the great "American moving day," when probably more families move than on any other date in the year.

During his half century in the trucking business Mr. Hogan and his associates have moved almost every conceivable article from general household goods to pianos, heavy industrial machines, boilers, safes and even bank vaults. In fact for the past half century when anyone had a heavy trucking job to do their thoughts turned to Van Ethen & Hogan, a firm which for so many years had been engaged in business.

One Horse Truck.
It was 50 years ago on April 28, that Mr. Hogan started out with a one horse truck to enter the trucking business. Half a century ago Mr. Hogan announced to the merchants that he was ready to move anything which could be moved, and he has been on the move ever since, and today was actively engaged in the conduct of his business.

For a time he was associated with William Lasher under the name of Hogan & Lasher and on the withdrawal of Mr. Lasher from the business Jasen Van Ethen of Wall street became a partner. The firm then became known as Van Ethen & Hogan and was located on Wall street where Mr. Hogan now resides at 150 Wall street. For about 18 years the firm of Van Ethen & Hogan continued with Mr. Hogan and Jasen Van Ethen as its members and on the death of Mr. Van Ethen his son, William H. Van Ethen succeeded his father. The firm was continued by Mr. Van Ethen and Mr. Hogan for twenty-two years when Mr. Van Ethen retired from the firm and devoted all of his time to the duties of vice-president of the Kingston Trust Company. Since then Mr. Hogan has continued the business using the same firm name of Van Ethen & Hogan.

Horse Drawn Vehicles
At first the firm used horse drawn vehicles and from the small beginning the firm grew until at one time they operated eleven trucks and kept twenty-two horses. Many years ago, however, there came a change in the trucking business. Motor trucks began to replace the horse and the firm of Van Ethen & Hogan was among the first to enter the motor field. A truck built by the firm of A. R. King Company, Prince street, Kingston, was the first motor truck owned. Gradually the horses were replaced by motor vehicles and the firm gradually purchased additional motor equipment, adding two large vans and five smaller trucks.

Some Heavy Jobs
Mr. Hogan has supervised the moving of some extremely heavy equipment during his lifetime. When the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Company installed a Diesel plant at Wilbur for the generation of power machinery totaling 450 tons was moved without a mishap, some of the pieces weighing as high as 25 tons. The moving of safes, always a heavy and treacherous job, is one of the specialties of the firm and many of the largest safes in the city have been moved and installed by the firm. His long experience in the work has made Mr. Hogan an expert in his line.

Many of his friends today extended to him congratulations over the rounding of a half century of work and expressed their hopes that he would continue actively in the business for many more years.

TROY BAN ON BILLBOARDS DECLARED UNCONSTITUTIONAL

General prohibition of advertising billboards within city limits is unconstitutional, the New York State Court of Appeals decided Monday in an opinion that voided an ordinance of the city of Troy.

The decision of the majority of the court, written by Judge John F. Loughran, held that "the ordinance is void on its face." Judge Edward R. Finch opposed the majority and rendered a dissenting opinion.

Movable Sidewalk

Albany, N. Y., April 28 (AP)—Norman W. Storer, a fellow of the American Institute of Electric Engineers, today proposed a movable sidewalk to connect Grand Central Terminal and the Pennsylvania Station, New York city's major rail terminals. Storer, speaking before the Albany Society of Engineers, said the proposed sidewalk could be laid underground from 42nd to 34th streets between Park and Eighth avenues. It would travel 25 miles an hour, he said, carrying thousands of persons at a time.

"Ya Jes' Keep Sighin'" As Old Man River Rages

There is nothing these unfortunate can do except watch helplessly as the Rappahannock River leaves its banks and floods their homes from which they have saved the few articles in the forewreck. The scene is at Fredericksburg, Va., as the river reached a stage 20 feet above normal.
